I am currently Senior Director, Strategy & Operations at a national nonprofit organization. In this role, I have managed a range of strategy, financial and operational initiatives -- from running multi-year and annual strategic planning to preparing the organization's annual budget to helping reorganize field operations to improve efficiency, effectiveness and alignment. Prior to my current role, I worked in the energy and sustainability sectors, including four years at a large consulting firm (Navigant, now Guidehouse), where I worked closely with the federal government and private sector stakeholders to design and implement energy regulations. This included direct involvement in a negotiated rulemaking that brought together diverse stakeholders over the course of more than a year to arrive at a consensus-based outcome. Previous roles also include international work focused on economic development and renewable energy infrastructure in emerging markets. I am very interested in (and grateful for) city government and hope my experience in

I moved to Richmond in 2021 after a decade in DC and am just beginning to get more involved in the life of the city. I sincerely hope I will have an opportunity to volunteer with the City Planning Commission in this capacity. I also serve as chair of the Margaret Okari Children's Foundation, an educational organization based in rural Kenya that operates a residential school for orphans and other at-risk youth. I lived in Kenya in 2008-09 and worked with a local woman to establish the school, and have remained involved ever since.

Emily Striffler is an Architect and Design Director with 510 architects. She is a member of the AIA and is licensed in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Prior to joining 510 in 2016, she gained experience in a broad range of project types, including civic institutions, public libraries, higher education learning buildings and residence halls, k-12 facilities, and high-end custom residential builds. In her nearly 8 years at 510, she has further expanded her range by working with a variety of clients and users to achieve award winning new construction and adaptive-reuse commercial, residential, and industrial spaces. At the heart of her design philosophy is the belief that contextual design solutions lead to unique, functional, and beautiful spaces at every scale.
