What is the Trauma Healing Response Network?

- Created in 2021 through partnership with Richmond City Council, the Richmond and Henrico Health Districts, and the Richmond Behavioral Health Foundation.
- Engages impacted families in the aftermath of a firearm injury or death through an evidence-based, trauma-informed lens.
- Convenes 38 community partners working in housing, food access, mental health support, and violence prevention.
- Provides direct connection to community partners, short-term case management, and long-term resource referrals.

THRN and GVPI in Richmond

THRN supports three pillars of Richmond's Gun Violence Prevention and Intervention Framework:

- Crisis intervention and wrap around services
- Intensive case management
- Credible messengers

Providing meaningful support...

"...Just have to thank you for helping me through this situation..you and your team was a blessing for my family and I. I wouldn't got none of this done with you all. I am really thankful you just don't understand mannnn. God is good!!!! And just to keep checking on me and taking the time to see my son and you have other situations or things you're going through..I can't even express how appreciative I am. You're beautiful inside and out and I can't thank you enough..."

Comprehensive response and support

- 697 wellness checks
- 110 long-term mental health support connections
- More than $30,000 in emergency funds disbursed directly to support impacted families
- 12 families provided with emergency housing and relocation support
- 26 cases at high risk for retaliation-related events engaged for intervention.
