Southside Community Center
Richmond Department of Parks and Recreation

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is to petition to appeal the decision to remove Earl Hughes as Center supervisor at Southside Community Center. Earl has served as the acting center supervisor the past 3 years while overseeing almost 200 children per year and their families. During Earl's tenure as acting center supervisor, Earl has brought in multiple programs and along with a full slate of youth activities not only sports activities but also fitness programs for adults, The Read Center, and hosting monthly council meeting. He has partnered with local churches like Faith and Family Church and community social clubs to bring school supplies and backpacks to children in the surrounding communities. Earl's impact on the community cannot be summed up in a few lines, his life has been a crucial component in what the Southside Community Center has become and it would never be the same without him. Earl has committed to taking the necessary training and classes to improve his ongoing love and passion for the center and the families it serves. With over 50 homicides in the city of Richmond and 100s of girls being trafficked in local Southside motel on the adjacent Midlothian Turnpike, the work being done at the center is crucial.

Based on the duties and qualifications listed on Richmond Parks and Recreation Website for "Recreation Center Supervisor," Earl Hughes meets all specifications, responsibilities, and qualifications for the position including:

- Supervises staff including selecting or recommending selection, training, assigning and evaluating work, counseling, disciplining, and terminating or recommending termination.
- Monitors, oversees and trains facility staff and volunteers; recruits and assigns volunteers; assigns work hours and job assignments.
- Plans, coordinates and approves scheduling of programs; compiles attendance figures.
- Prepares and submits records and reports related to center operations and budgets to meet objectives or criteria for federally funded programs.
- Promotes community involvement through flyers, newsletters, community activity calendars and talking to community groups; works with local businesses to support centers.
- Enforces safety rules and regulations and surveys equipment; disciplines to ensure a safe environment.
- Orders supplies and keeps inventories.

Qualifications

- Requires high school diploma, GED and training that is equivalent to satisfactory completion of one year of college education or specialized advanced training.
- Requires one year of experience.
- An equivalent combination of training and experience (as approved by the department) may be used to meet the minimum qualifications of the classification.
