To City Council & Mayor Stoney:

City workers have chosen to work for the betterment of all people in the City of Richmond. Recognizing collective bargaining rights for all city employees will improve jobs and services, keep experienced workers on the job, and raise standards for all workers while closing racial and gender pay gaps.

Together we can create and pass a collective bargaining ordinance that ensures the highest quality services for our community, respects, protects, and pays all city employees, and makes Richmond city the best city to work and live in.

Sincerely,

Ben Himmelfarb
