

PUBLIC ART COMMISSION

CITY OF RICHMOND

PUBLIC MEETING + FIELD SURVEY REPORT

Project Name: Riverfront Public Art Project #1 Meeting Dates: May 6, 2014

Subject/Purpose: Public Meeting Report Issuance Date: June 23, 2014

A public meeting was held on May 6, 2014 to inform the public about the Riverfront Public Art Project #1 and provide an opportunity for public comment and input. Public meeting notifications included several email broadcasts to members of the Riverfront Public Art Project #1 Site Selection Team requesting that they further disseminate announcements to their contacts; a public meeting announcement flyer; and postings on the Public Art Commission website and facebook pages. This Public Meeting Report provides an overview of the public input received during the meetings.

After the meeting, the Site Selection Team conducted additional field surveying with the intent of reaching a more diverse audience. The Site Selection Team developed an online survey for individuals to complete. The team also conducted in-person surveys at the fishing piers near Rocketts Landing, the River Rock Festival, the Overlook Climbing Wall, and the SunTrust cafeteria. The survey results are provided in this report.

This report is organized as follows:

- A. Meeting Overview
- B. Meeting Content
- C. Field Surveying
- D. Survey Results

Other Comments

- 1 Especially for the first piece, something people will like
- Bike changing station = in form of Ralph in front of JRP offices Local art, unless Andy Goldsworthy Areas for people with ideas to have input if they are not artists themselves
- 3 Keep the language of the animals not part of sculpture. Let real birds be birds this is ART although ART can be where some animals can live like BATS or BIRDS.

Summer + winter - winter may restrict fountains.

Consider a walk below water level with windows to see fish migrate.

I pray that no matter what we can find both spontaneity and serenity. $\ensuremath{\mathsf{AMEN}}$

Thank you for your efforts.

4 No statues to historic people

No reference to past wars

The focus should be the river not Richmond history - that is well represented elsewhere

Abstract is good, nothing too literal (sturgeon statue)

Incorporating evening lighting would be great

Thanks for letting us be a part of the process!

- I'd like to see an Atlantic Sturgeon statue or perhaps a statue to commemorate the Richmond 2015 bike races. My preference is subtle, not bold. The river is too beautiful itself, does not need to be overshadowed.
- Public art as something that is discovered and delightful because it's a part of the landscape that's my ideal.

 Something designed by someone who understands the river and the city who can speak to the city as well as engage visitors
- 7 Other Provide interactive experience art you can touch and climb on
 - A life-sized statue of an American Sturgeon swimming made of bronze or a hard polymer about 7 or 8 feet long. (May perhaps include an accompanying smaller statue 4-5 feet long representing a male sturgeon)
 - There could be an accompanying plaque or interpretive sign telling about sturgeon breeding in these rivers and being ridden by Native American boys as a rite of manhood.
- I'd really like to see a wide variety of installations that serve many purposes. While I checked my personal preferences, I think they all have merit. Most importantly, the installations should be approachable and tactile. Further, I really like to be surprised by seeing installations where they are not expected. While a few large, landmark pieces will be nice, I'd prefer many smaller installations.
- Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Tyler Potterfield

 This should serve as an opportunity to produce a creative, contemporary and engaging piece. Functional would be great also such as shade or a water feature, something that could be flexible/seasonal/adaptable.
- 10 Other Calls viewers to beauty of nature
 - I would view the river as the true art, and would hope any art installations don't try to take that lead. It is already artistic let it be! History points add to human connections. Participatory, temporary are good adjectives.
- In general the artwork should represent the entire spectrum of the river, to include the many moods of the river, the history of the river and its inhabitants (human, fish, animals, etc.) Also to include the flora and fauna of the river
- 12 Other create community place

Collaborative

Part of a larger vision for public art

Reveal layers of meaning / connections to the site

Discovery

The art should convey all the worth and information brought to the riverfront project as a whole. "Aesthetics" are relative to each individual, but the aesthetic value I would desire to see would be environmentally beautiful, natural, animal example: bears, the bears that migrate along the river, the wilderness, the birds.

Interactive piece would in my opinion create diversion from the river.

The thought that lighting installations might happen, to me, would distract the beauty of the nighttime river.

14 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? - All

Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? - Ralph White

Other - Be evocative of river and nature

Fit to site

Evoke the beauty of the river

Not block views

15 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? - floods

Light

Sound

Wind

16 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? - All starting w/ 1607

Please consider the site. There is no shortage of things to see and do along the river. The art should compliment what is there. Expose visitors to our rich history. I thought the Gateshead art was great for Gateshead, but would be totally inappropriate for Richmond. We are a vibrant community and there is already a lot to see and experience along the river. The art should enhance what is there and we don't need a major focal point.

Final – June 2014 Page 8 of 10

- 17 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? John Smith
 - Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Sturgeon.
 - I found the examples in the England town appalling. The most absurd was the angel that no one apparently understands.
 - Richmond is rich in legacy, history that would be appropriate to project in our art.
 - Please not put "art" on the river that everyone won't understand.
 - Don't allow artists who are out of touch with the general population to decide this.
- Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Ralph White
 - Like the idea of a functional piece
 - Like the idea of local artists
 - If we are as creative as we say we are, this is a chance to prove it.
- 19 Please include sound art installations
- 20 Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Ralph White Someone should paint a picture from the train bridge looking up pipeline rapid at sunset
- 21 Engage those who use the area as well as those new to it
- 22 Thanks good presentation. Informative and exciting to a part of this.
- 23 Tribute to Ralph White
- 24 Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Ralph White
- 25 Nice work. Really looking forward to this actually happening
- 26 Loved the presentation!
- 27 Like the sheep in the presentation and the rusty bridge (fantastic) Would like to see natural and interwoven art in the woods - more subtle
- I'm interested in keeping the art off of the dam walk and on the banks of the river. I think the art should be striking so it makes the river area more of a destination
- 29 I love the idea of a tribute to Ralph White
- 30 Audio and light must be used carefully and with understanding of ecological issues related especially to light trespass and pollution
- I am a life-long resident of Richmond and have long loved the river. I learned that although we call it the James, the Indians called it Powhatan. I would love to see some focus on the Indian culture that preceded ours.
- 32 Please of not use religious symbols.
 - I like the idea of having some functional art.
 - It would be wonderful to honor Ralph White
- 33 Since this is the first piece, it should have a real presence and impact on the viewer and/or participant
- 34 Please include Art on Wheels in correspondence regarding Request for Qualifications. Thank you.
- 35 No neon please
- 36 Thanks, the James is our gem.
- 37 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? Industrial revolution Other primary functions you'd like the artwork to serve? Historical quotes are great
- 38 Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Ralph White

Final – June 2014 Page 9 of 10

- 39 Other: No art, leave natural
- 40 Other: Inspire to get in the river
- 41 Do not promote tourism
 - Other: encourage respect of the environment
- 42 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? Civil War
- 43 What is the cities future plan(s) for our Dock St. fishing pier?
- 44 What will happen to the fishing pier at 25th and Dock St?
- 45 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? Black history
- 46 Other: provide a place for traveling exhibitions and students to display
- 47 Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Ralph White
- 48 Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Any slave route, colonial significance
- 49 I don't think taxpayer dollars should be spent on this project while both the city and state are facing deficits and deficiencies in other areas (schools, police)
- 50 Hip hop art
- 51 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? Founding of Richmond
- 52 Memorialize or commemorate a person or event, if so, which person/event? Historical leaders
- 53 Celebrate historic events, if so, which events? African American History
